Describe your outfit from and our trunks style change, black tape around wrists and black and red leather boots do you have a special move? arcing the knee leg - a high impact move with a big splash to the side in rings and America and be in the best physical shape that I can be and also to write an autobiography here? I haven't really got one if you were a drink what would you be and why? A beer - it's nice and simple and what you see is what you get how do you relax? Listening to music, eating good food and spending time with friends

Describe your outfit It represents the wrestling machine inside me. My bones have been taken out and replaced with metal because inside I'm indestructible do you have a special move? The reconstruction ability to be able to wrestle for a living and to get into the WWF, what was the WWF like? Kurt Cobain because he's an inspiration to be yourself. And the wrestler Jeff Hardy who revolutionized wrestling, making it more extreme and high-risk - "risking all to win" if you were a drink what would you be and why? Scotch Whisky mixed with power-aid mixed with Lucozade mixed with coffee because I'm hyper hyper hyper and whilst not in the main time how do you relax? Sitting back and watching lots of wrestling, with my girlfriend Pauline, who helps me heal. Deacon Despair is me and my girlfriend.

But even when only playing to a handful of Brummies rather than the adoring masses of yesterday, they gave their all. GBT (a later day Dobby), Deacon Despair (the Kurt Cobain of modern British wrestling) and rising stars like Five Star Flash do it for the love of the game. These guys (and girls) have learnt from The Rock and the other stars of the WWWF, but are also committed to bringing back the finer traditions of British wrestling: a fine mix of theatre, technical skill and a genuine world of pain. And if you think it's all a bit, well, you can tell them that.
